Protecting our Nation's Natural Resources for Future Generations

The Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) is the Department of Agriculture's largest conservation program. With today's announcement, the Department will ensure that over 33 million acres of environmental sensitive and fragile lands will be placed into grass and trees that will improve the soil, water, and wildlife resources of our Nation.

CRP provides income to producers who voluntarily practice sound resource stewardship on these lands. Society benefits through improved water quality, safer drinking water supplies, enhanced wildlife, improved air quality, and improved soil resources. CRP continues to be one of the most cost effective means to achieve a multitude of conservation benefits.

Recently, I announced USDA's major commitment to protect the most environmentally important lands. We announced a number of changes to enhance the financial package to enroll filter strips, riparian buffers, grassed waterway, field windbreaks, and other continuous signup practices. These bands of grass and trees next to our streams and rivers are vital for ensuring a safe water supply and we will make every effort possible to work with producers to voluntarily protect these lands.

The Farm Service Agency works with State partners to address high priority resource concerns through the Conservation Reserve Enhancement Program (CREP). Vice President Al Gore recently announced our CREP effort to further protect Lake Erie, and I signed agreements in Pennsylvania and Virginia to enroll high priority lands along streams and rivers to protect the Chesapeake Bay.

The CRP has been and will continue to be a vital tool in protecting resources on private land for this and future generations. I am very proud of the effort that producers and USDA have made to protect our Nation's resources.

INTRODUCTION

This publication provides detailed county-based data for the Conservation Reserve Program's (CRP) signup 20. As background, a map illustrates the location of 31.4 million acres that was enrolled in CRP in October 1999 and three tables provide historical enrollment information by initial contract year, contract expiration, and a comparison of acres still under contract. Subsequent maps describe the location of the acreage offered for signup 20 and its environmental score before cost is considered.

Next, another map provides the location of signup 20's acceptable acreage and the final map identifies the location of acreage in CRP as of October 2000. These maps are followed by exhaustive State-by-State financial, programmatic, and environmental characteristics. Then, much of the same information is provided on a county basis.

The CRP is the Department of Agriculture's (USDA) largest conservation and environmental program and is authorized by Title XII of the Food Security Act of 1985, as amended. The purpose of the CRP is to cost-effectively assist farm owners and operators in conserving and improving soil, water, air, and wildlife resources by converting highly erodible and other environmentally sensitive land to a long-term resource-conserving cover.

CRP participants enroll contracts for periods from 10 to 15 years in exchange for market-based annual rental payments and cost-share and technical assistance for installing approved conservation practices.

The USDA uses a combination of locally- and Nationally-based data validations to ensure the greatest level of data accuracy and consistency. Extensive analysis of the environmental benefits and the rental costs are conducted using the Environmental Benefits Index (EBI). An EBI has been used to prioritize and rank CRP offers since the tenth signup in 1991.

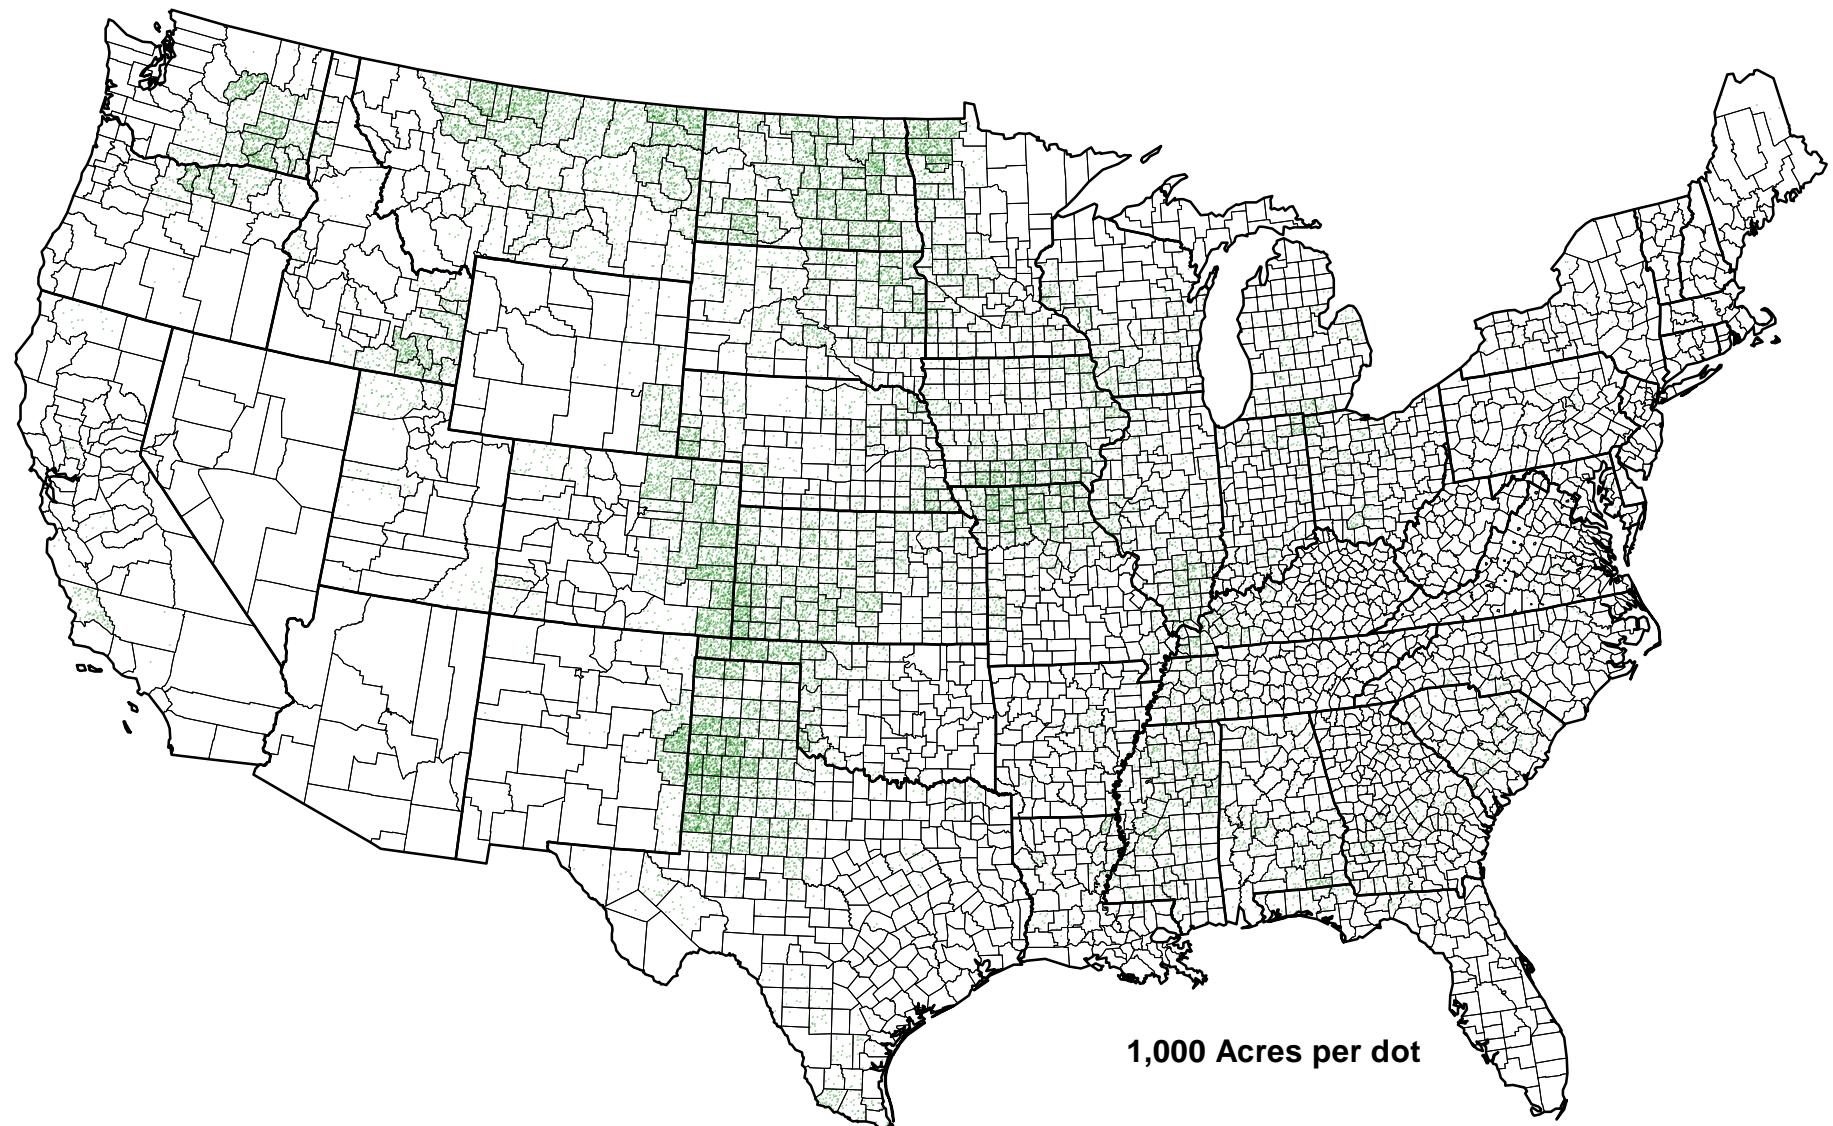

When an offer is made, USDA employees collect environmental and other data. Each offer is assigned a point score in consultation with the person making the offer based on the relative environmental benefits of that offer. After the end of the signup period, offers are ranked in comparison to all other offers nationally and selections are made from that ranking.

Signup 20 was conducted during a 4-week period from January 18, 2000, through February 11, 2000.

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

- ◆ The minimum acceptable Environmental Benefits Index (EBI) level is 246 which is comparable to the last two signups of 245 for signup 18 and 247 for signup 16.
- ◆ The overall environmental quality of offers remains strong. The EBI, unadjusted for cost, was 176 for signup 20 compared to 170 for signup 18 and 163 for signup 16.
- ◆ Over 56,000 offers for nearly 3.5 million acres were received. Of these, over 39,500 acceptable offers for almost 2.5 million acres were accepted.
- ◆ Highlights of signup 20 include:
 - ✓ Almost 1.3 million acres of highly erodible land including about 700 thousand acres of land with an erodibility index greater than 15;
 - ✓ Nearly 1.3 million acres of land within conservation priority areas;
 - ✓ Almost 275 thousand acres of trees will be planted;
 - ✓ Over 150 thousand acres of wetlands and protective upland areas;
 - ✓ Almost 123 thousand acres to be restored to rare and declining habitats; and
 - ✓ Nearly 65 thousand acres of longleaf pine will be restored.

1/ Beginning with Signup 15, total includes new and re-enrolled acres.

2/ Includes net changes resulting from (1) reduced enrollment due to normal contract expiration, early contract terminations, and withdrawn offers; (2) increased enrollment due to waivers and appeals; and (3) contract adjustments and other corrections.

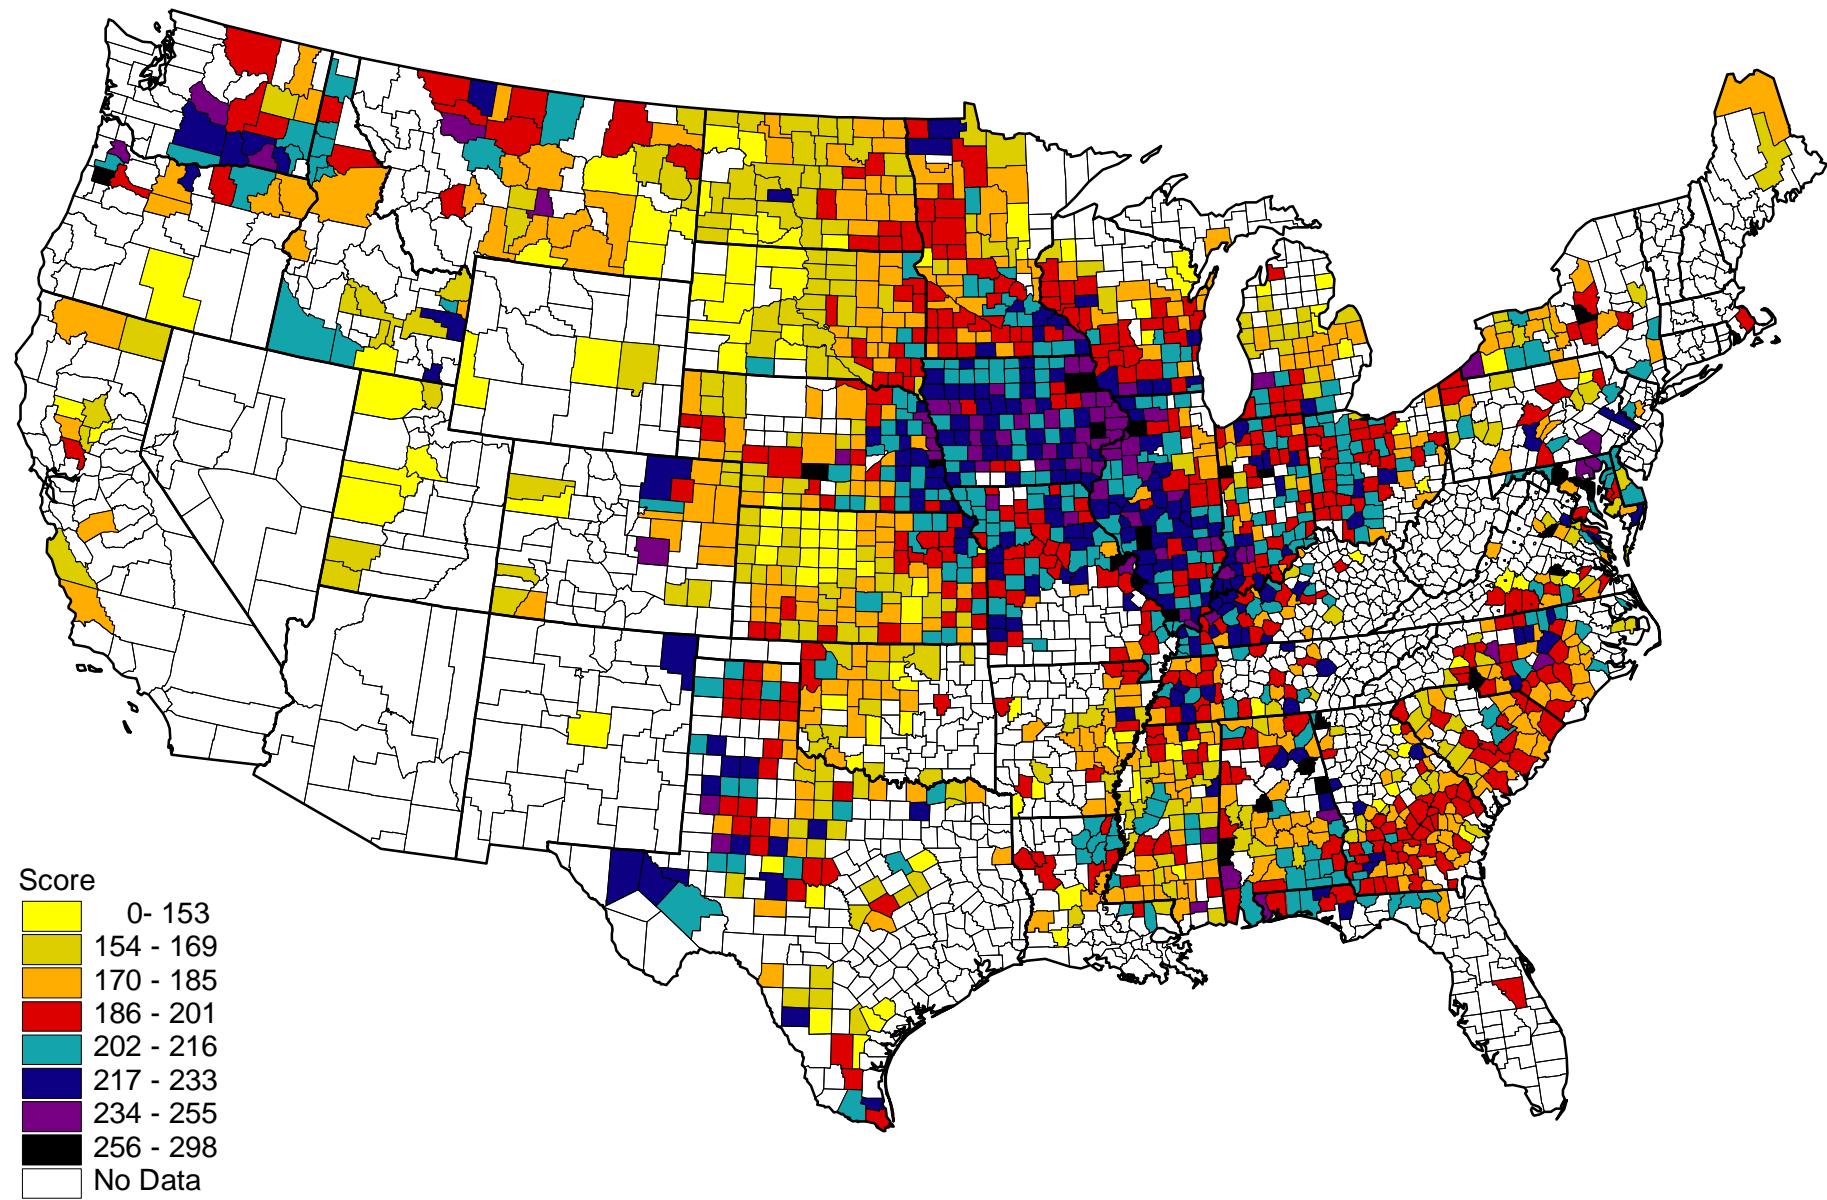

3/ Includes acres under contracts that were extended up to 5 additional years.

NOTE: Signups were not held for 1994 and 1995. The 14th, 17th, 19th, and 21st signups are continuous signups for special conservation practices.
