Eddie Woodhouse was appointed by the Trump Administration to serve as the State Executive Director of the USDA Farm Service Agency (FSA) in North Carolina in April 2020.

Prior to his appointment, Woodhouse chaired a County Board of Elections, was an appointee with the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development and served on a U.S. Senate staff.

Previously with USDA, Woodhouse served North Carolina agricultural producers as the communications and outreach coordinator for FSA in North Carolina.

In 1982, he earned a degree in Communications from Lipscomb University.

Woodhouse is a motivational speaker and a part-time preacher. He is a North Carolina State Wolfpack fan and loves to run the magnificent Outer Banks beach of North Carolina.

A North Carolina native, Woodhouse and wife, Michele, a founder and president of a medical aesthetics consulting firm, reside in Hendersonville with a one-eyed rescue pup named “Raleighwood.”
