Elap Project, FSA, 2018 - 2019

The Elap Project (ELAP) is a federal program that provides financial assistance to farmers who have suffered losses as a result of natural disasters. The program is administered by the Farm Service Agency (FSA) of the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA). ELAP provides targeted payments to eligible farmers to help them recover from losses incurred from natural disasters.

In 2018, the USDA made $90 million in targeted payments to farmers through the Elap Project. The program is designed to provide financial assistance to farmers who have experienced a significant loss due to a natural disaster. The program is available to farmers who have suffered losses from floods, hurricanes, tornadoes, and other natural disasters.

The USDA Farm Service Agency (FSA) administers the Elap Project. Farmers who are eligible for the program can apply for assistance online, by phone, or in person at their local USDA office.

The Elap Project is one of several programs that the USDA offers to help farmers recover from natural disasters. Other programs include the Emergency Disaster Assistance Program (EDAP), the Pandemic Assistance Program (PAP), and the Community Disaster Loan Program (CDLP).
