FSA Urban-Area County Commissions

USDA has a strong history of standing with farmers, especially in rural areas. The first urban area county commissioner was appointed in 1930 for the USDA’s Soil Conservation Service (NRCS). This program is now funded through the Farm Bill. USDA has identified urban areas where NRCS and FSA work with local farmers and gardeners. This includes cities like Chicago, Illinois; Detroit, Michigan; Baltimore, Maryland; Columbus, Ohio; Buffalo, New York; and Portland, Oregon.

FSA-669A Urban-Area County Commissions

- 15 District – FSA Urban-Area County Commissions
- 13 National – Urban-Area County Commissions
- 5 National – National Urban-Area County Commissions

To learn more about the programs, visit fsa.usda.gov/elections or farmers.gov/urban.