Noninsured Assistance Program (NAP) Program
 Official Change of Application Deadline Date ****

NEW INFORMATION:

NAP application deadline date is now APRIL 01, 2010, and will be this same date in subsequent years.

OLD Information:

2010 Non-Insured Assistance Program (NAP) Coverage Application Deadline WAS December 01, 2009.

Effective November 25, 2009, the 2010 (and subsequent years) application signup deadline for ALL non-insurable crops is now April 1st of each crop year. Producers may still apply for Year 2010 NAP coverage up through the April 01, 2010 established deadline date! This gives you, the producer, a better feel for what type of year may be ahead, i.e., dry, wet, how irrigation water looks, range condition going into May turnout, etc. You will still be required to pay the fee at the time of application and complete all necessary documents for the program year.

Remember that the NAP coverage fee is $250 per crop type, $250 for hay forage and $250 for grazing coverage. I encourage you to contact FSA to file a 2010 NAP application early and prior to April 01, 2010, no exceptions! No late-file applications will be accepted.

NAP Participants are also required to file forage production reports to comply with their NAP application coverage. 2009 forage production reports for each crop will be accepted now and through the crop acreage reporting deadline of July 01, 2010. We encourage you to report your 2009 harvested production now while it is still fresh on your mind.

First time NAP applicants will need to submit at least the prior four years of production records to aide in establishing your NAP program yield. This will be the figure used to calculate any potential benefits should you the producer sustain more than a 50% percent loss. You must stand the first 50% of any loss as required by the NAP program policy.

NAP is the program that you must file your Notice of Loss within 15 calendar days of the date the disaster becomes apparent. Filing a Notice of Loss is essential for loss application processing.
