End of Web-Based Combined Producer Data Load

Approved by: Acting Deputy Administrator, Farm Programs

1 Continuing Web-Based Combined Producer Data Load

A Background

3-PL, Amendment 10 informed County Offices that May 21, 2007, was the deadline for completing the Web-Based Combined Producer Data Load process.

State and County Offices have done a tremendous job in loading combinations in the web-based system to meet the established deadline. To date, County Offices have recorded 172,346 combinations in the web-based system, even with the difficulties that have been experienced during the last few weeks because of various problems in processing information.

Even with the problems encountered when loading the web-based combinations, it was the intention of the National Office to not extend the deadline for the data load process. However, Kansas City has not completed developing the software that is needed to download the combined records from the web to the mainframe. Without the ability to download the web-based data to the mainframe, payment limitation cannot be controlled properly for any payment issued on the System 36, thereby creating the possibility of improper payments. Therefore, it is impossible to end the data load process at this time and the System 36 combined software must remain enabled until the download process can be completed.

Kansas City cannot project a date at this time as to when the software will be available to download the records from the web to the mainframe. Data load of web-based combinations will remain open until software has been developed to complete the download process. As soon as the software is developed, the data load process will end immediately.
